Other meetings may be arranged in advance

Required material:

Advanced mid students will use Al Kitaab fi Ta'allum al-'Arabiyya II by Mahmoud Al-Batal/Kristen Brustad, et al., second edition (Georgetown, 2006), chapters 7 – 10, provided by the institute. Additional material, such as texts and exercises from other textbooks and authentic sources, will be presented in class.

Recommended text:

The Hans Wehr Dictionary of Modern Written Arabic by Hans Wehr, fourth edition, edited by J. Milton Cowan (Ithaca, NY: Spoken Language Services); an Arabic-English Dictionary

Online dictionary: several are available, e.g. the Cambridge Dictionary at www.dictionary.cambridge.org/dictionary/english-arabic/

Online learning: <http://www.cram.com/>, <http://www.aljazeera.net/portal>

Learning outcomes:

At the end of the Advanced mid level, students can converse confidently about political and social issues. They can retell stories and speak about events that happened in the past. Students at this level will be able to express themselves about a variety of topics in all tenses. They can be understood by native speakers and partake in their conversations with ease. At this level students will gain a deeper understanding of kād and her sisters as well as how they affect the remainder of a sentence or utterance. They will also become familiar with mā for exclamations and the difference between mā and man, and able to use these correctly. Students will be able to understand and analyze Arabic grammar as used in diverse sources.

Students will be able to use new grammar and vocabulary in order to produce coherent texts about social, historical, and personal topics. They will only rarely make mistakes in verb conjugation or word order and will be able to correct themselves. Their pronunciation is clear.

Topics covered:

- Stories and legends in the Arabic heritage
- Arab and Islamic civilization
- Arabic diglossia – between MSA and dialect
- Social traditions and rituals in Arab societies and communities

Noor Majan Training Institute uses authentic materials from print and broadcast media, as well as from the internet. Students acquire the competence to take in, understand, and comment on news broadcasts, articles, excerpts, and forum contributions using the appropriate register.

For the advanced mid level these materials can include, but are not limited to, Arabic stories and legends (written, films, cartoons), articles and background documentaries about Arab-Islamic civilization, debates and opinion pieces on Arabic standard language and dialects, graphs, or maps, and op-eds.

Course Requirements

- Participation in class: Attendance is obligatory. Furthermore, each student is expected to participate in class and to be adequately prepared to do so. Assignments will be discussed and corrected in class. Students will be graded on quantity and quality of participation. More than two absences might result in the termination of students' course participation.
- Oral presentations: Students will have to give weekly presentations in class about different issues.
- Portfolio: Students will prepare a portfolio in the media class to document their progress and topical and language learning.
- Homework & written assignments: Students are expected to accomplish the given homework and writing assignments within the announced time frame. Homework assignments can be either collected, or corrected, or presented in class. Students will be graded on the extent and regularity of accomplishment, as well as their correctness.

Exams:

- Tests: Throughout the course students will be presented with weekly quizzes to test different language skills in the classroom. These small tests take place every Thursday (except the last Thursday of each course).
- Final exam: The final exam is taken at the very end of the course and examines language development in all skills. It takes place on the last Wednesday of the course.

Student Evaluation

Students receive feedback from instructors throughout the course. Evaluation is a reflection of the student's proficiency, participation, engagement and progress. Feedback is based on oral participation in class, results in quizzes, tests, portfolios, mid-term and final exams as well as oral presentations in class and homework completion. Students will meet their teachers individually at least once on a weekly basis during office hours to discuss their performance and progress.

Grading:
