Other meetings may be arranged in advance

Required material:

Intermediate Low students will use Al Kitaab fi Ta'allum al-'Arabiyya I by Mahmoud Al-Batal/Kristen Brustad, et al., second edition (Georgetown, 2006), chapters 11 – 14, provided by the institute. Additional material, such as texts and exercises from other textbooks and authentic sources, will be presented in class.

Recommended text:

The Hans Wehr Dictionary of Modern Written Arabic by Hans Wehr, fourth edition, edited by J. Milton Cowan (Ithaca, NY: Spoken Language Services); an Arabic-English Dictionary

Online dictionary: several are available, e.g. the Cambridge Dictionary at www.dictionary.cambridge.org/dictionary/english-arabic/

Online learning: <http://www.cram.com/>, <http://www.aljazeera.net/portal>

Learning outcomes:

At the end of the Intermediate low level, students will be able to express themselves about personal topics and issues relating to daily life in short sentences. They will be able to describe pictures, objects and experiences using adjectives and their comparative forms. Students will also be able to use measurements. They can introduce and qualify their sentences through the use of inna and mā zāl. They will be able to answer non-formulaic questions to a certain extent and sometimes be able to correct themselves while speaking or writing. Students will have more fluent reading ability and develop a better sense for Arabic written expression.

Topics covered:

- Orders and daily needs: restaurants, shops, taxis
- Expansion of family relations vocabulary
- Arab family conceptions
- Friendship
- Traveling
- Moving and migrating

Media Literacy

Noor Majan Training Institute uses authentic materials from print and broadcast media, as well as from the internet. Students acquire the competence to take in, understand, and comment on news broadcasts, articles, excerpts, and forum contributions using the appropriate register.

For the intermediate low level these materials can include, but are not limited to, commercial advertisements in print and broadcast media, short films about family life, travel reports, reports and portraits on migration, graphs, or maps, and job portraits.

Course Requirements

- Participation in class: Attendance is obligatory. Furthermore, each student is expected to participate in class and to be adequately prepared to do so. Assignments will be discussed and corrected in class. Students will be graded on quantity and quality of participation. More than two absences might result in the termination of students' course participation.
- Oral presentations: Students will have to give weekly presentations in class about different issues.
- Portfolio: Students will prepare a portfolio in the media class to document their progress and topical and language learning.
- Homework & written assignments: Students are expected to accomplish the given homework and writing assignments within the announced time frame. Homework assignments can be either collected, or corrected, or presented in class. Students will be graded on the extent and regularity of accomplishment, as well as their correctness.

Exams:

- Tests: Throughout the course students will be presented with weekly quizzes to test different language skills in the classroom. These small tests take place every Thursday (except the last Thursday of each course).
- Final exam: The final exam is taken at the very end of the course and examines language development in all skills. It takes place on the last Wednesday of the course.

Student Evaluation

Students receive feedback from instructors throughout the course. Evaluation is a reflection of the student's proficiency, participation, engagement and progress. Feedback is based on oral participation in class, results in quizzes, tests, portfolios, mid-term and final exams as well as oral presentations in class and homework completion. Students will meet their teachers individually at least once on a weekly basis during office hours to discuss their performance and progress.

Grading:

Final exam: 40 %
